HASKELL SMALL IN THE CONCERT HALL

Haskell Small has several upcoming performances you should know about.

October 18 through 22 – Haskell will be presenting sections of his work in progress The Rothko Room: Journeys in Silence in concert in Iceland. He will be traveling there with several colleagues to be part of a week of concerts of American music and masterclasses in Reykjavik and other cities around the island nation.

His 6 Miniatures for bassoon and piano and Fugue and Postlude for flute, bassoon and piano will also be performed and Haskell will also participate in performances of music by Beth Anderson and Robert Ackerman.

Speaking of The Rothko Room: Journeys in Silence, it will be given its formal World Premiere on February 20, 2011 at The Phillips Collection museum in Washington, D.C. -

NEW LULLABY OF WAR CD ON NAXOS

The internationally renowned Naxos label has digitally issued a new CD of Haskell Small's Lullaby of War, Renoir's Feast and Three Etudes in Sound (catalog no 8.559649).

Performed by pianist Soheil Nasserli and narrated by Martin Rayner, this disk brings together three of Haskell's finest works.

The recording is currently available exclusively online. The release of the physical CD is scheduled for May 2011. More about it at http://www.naxos.com/catalogue/item.asp?item_code=8.559649.

There are several videos to accompany the music on YouTube at www.youtube.com/user/haskellsmall.

The composer is on piano in these performances and the narration is by acclaimed actors Robin Weigert and Martin Rayner.

This is very powerful and effecting music, which when combined with the imagery, becomes something extraordinary.

NEW PUBLICATION

Peer Music has published Haskell's solo piano masterwork Renoir's Feast. The composer had previously recorded the work for the Museum Music label. More about it here.

And, in other news, his A Game of Go videos have more than 36,000 viewings!! Find it at
